

Kangaroo

A Kangaroo is a marsupial mammal. The smaller ones are usually called Wallabies. The largest is the Red Kangaroo. It stands taller than a man and can weigh 85 kg's. It is the largest marsupial in the world.

www.studychamps.com

Koala

Some people refer to the Koala as a Koala Bear. Although Koala looks like a small bear, it is not a bear. The koala is a marsupial native to Australia. Its fur is thick and usually ash grey. Its diet mainly includes eucalyptus leaves.

www.studychamps.com

Possum

Possoms are marsupials with long tails. The smallest possum is the Little Pygmy Possum with the length of 70mm and a weight of 10g. The largest is the Bear Cuscus that may exceed 7 kg. Possoms are typically nocturnal.

www.studychamps.com